Applicable Notes: Services and features apply to certain CLINs as indicated by numbered applicable notes. Those are as follows:

Note A. Only available for unclassified use. All RIM BlackBerry Wireless Handheld are FIPS 140-2 compliant by providing Triple DES encryption of all incoming and outgoing transmissions. Provides network support only to coverage areas with existing commercial infrastructure. Only supports NMCI "Enterprise" server e-mail redirection. Includes standard e-mail functionality, filtering, attachment support (forwarding and reading), incoming e-mail notification, secure password capability, Personal Organizer software and synchronization, information backup utilities, and application loader (optional applications must be supplied by EDS). Includes software which provides full function electronic mail client extension to NMCI e-mail outlook mailbox, Calendar, Address book, Memo pad, Task list, and information backup utilities. Does not include "Poison Pill" technology (to automatically secure/wipe lost devices), hardware token/CAC integration, roaming access, nor voice service, it being understood that roaming access and voice service is supported under CLIN 6001, 6002, and 6003 when the appropriate service CLIN is ordered.

Note B. "Data/Voice Service" provides data and voice communication on one BlackBerry handheld device. This service is only available to coverage areas with existing commercial infrastructure.

Note C: Common calling plan features include (but not limited to) : Domestic and Local Long Distance; Voice Mail; Caller ID; Call Waiting; Call Forwarding; Three-way Calling; Missed Call Indicator; Directory Assistance; Conference Calling; Numeric/Text Messaging (varies by carrier)

Note D: EDS is only responsible for SLA performance inside the NMCI infrastructure Point of Presence (POP) if Government provided and maintained handheld device.

Note E: EDS shall provide help desk support for the services provided from EDS and the NMCI infrastructure except for the Government provided and maintained handheld device. If EDS determines that the cause of a reported problem is the result of the Government provided handheld device, non-certified software failure, or users wireless carrier, the Help Desk will close the trouble ticket and refer the user to their Government representative, appropriate OEM, and/or wireless carrier for resolution. Device maintenance and/or break-fix support for Government provided device is not included; maintenance and/or break-fix support is included for EDS-provided devices. Costs associated with changes (deactivation or reactivation) to the current users wireless carrier are not included in this CLIN and are the responsibility of the Government. As a result of the limited support provided by EDS, it is recommended that the Government purchase an appropriate warranty extension and/or maintenance program from the OEM or reseller to afford preventive and corrective maintenance service for the expected life cycle of the item, normally three years. In the event an item interferes in the operation of any NMCI equipment and/or network, the Government acknowledges and agrees that the item shall promptly be removed.
